

Vulnerability as Strength: Find Out What Real Leaders Already Know

“Let’s Get Real!” Speaking Series, Part I

Thursday, February 14, 2013, 7:00 p.m. – 8:30 p.m.

Sunnyvale Presbyterian Church, Fireside Room 728 W. Fremont Ave., Sunnyvale, CA

The cat is out of the bag. The cat’s name is vulnerability and I’m here to show you that vulnerable is the new powerful. I’ve experienced it and I invite you into the conversation around the possibility of this truth. All too frequently, we humans shield ourselves from our brightness and core genius: “Our greatest fear is that we are powerful beyond measure.” Marianne Williamson said it; Nelson Mandela quoted it, Brene Brown locked it in with data. Now you can live it: vulnerable AND powerful.; vulnerable AND real.

You are invited to listen, experience and get curious about this leadership power tool with Leadership and Life Coach Jennifer Hanlon, MPA, CPCC. An advocate for leadership-from-the-inside-out, Jennifer has spent years studying how and where people get stuck in their lives and, most recently, how vulnerability plays a role in our leadership at work, at home or in community. This talk is the first in a series called Let’s Get Real: Transformative Tools for a New World. During this introductory engagement you will:

- Learn the meaning of empowered vulnerability;
- Understand the power of your hidden gifts;
- Begin to make the connection between vulnerability, authenticity and what is real;
- Learn how to thrive in the unknown;
- Walk away with a better understanding of how vulnerability works as a power tool in your life.

Through her experiences in coaching, consulting, parenting and living her own vulnerable life, Jennifer will re-acquaint and recalibrate your relationship with vulnerability. As a participant, you will be invited to offer your insights on where you see more potential for vulnerability awareness. Additionally, you will receive a free gift to take with you on your individual journey to get or stay more authentic and real.

Treat yourself to the gift of intentional conversation around living into what’s real by reserving a seat via email to: coach@vulnerableleader.com. No message required, simply affirm for yourself in the subject line: “RSVP.” “Count me in!” also works!
